Replying to @EmilyGorcenski

He could have sprayed it in the air with not a single person around and this charge could have been brought forward.

Replying to @EmilyGorcenski

"CAPABLE of, producing vile or injurious or nauseating odors" no injury or victim is necessary for this charge.

Replying to @EmilyGorcenski

Maybe you should march down to his office and tell him how to do his job. I would think that such evidence would be of the utmost importance at a preliminary hearing.

David O'Shine @DavidOShine3 · 27 Nov 2017

Replying to @EmilyGorcenski

The only thing in question is whether he deployed the pepperspray unlawfully. There are no charges left relating to personal injury to you or Goad.

David O'Shine @DavidOShine3 · 27 Nov 2017

Replying to @EmilyGorcenski

Why not?

David O'Shine @DavidOShine3 · 27 Nov 2017

Replying to @EmilyGorcenski

You alleged that you were affected by Cantwell's pepperspray. That could not be proven. End of story.

David O'Shine @DavidOShine3 · 27 Nov 2017

Replying to @EmilyGorcenski

The judge literally spent hours looking at footage and found there was not enough evidence to move forward with your malicious bodily injury charge. Pretty sure he is more qualified to make that call than you are.

Which part if what I said is false?

The remaining charge has nothing to do with personal injury. Any alleged injury to Goad or yourself could not be proven, therefore they were thrown out. They will not be brought back up because it was easily proved in court that there is no evidence to back up your claims.

The charges that you and Goad filed claiming injury were thrown out. Same with your restraining order. I was there.

Who hurt You? Cantwell? Those allegations were laughed out of court.

Wrong

Replying to @EmilyGorcenski

Your charges were dropped because you and Goad lied. Yes, that's a failure. If you actually think Cantwell will be convicted of that, you are insane. Plea agreement incoming. Misdemeanor, time served.

You failed miserably yesterday. And I have to say, your people need to work on their optics. Literally everyone there looked like greasy crackheads.

Imagine being so pathetic that your entire case was proven fraudulent and you still think you have the upper hand.

None of that would have happened if you maniacs let our people speak. Instead, you came to fight, throw shit and piss and wreck the town. We were peacefully gathered until you decided you were going to shut down our event with violence.
